1.0 Executive Summary

In October 2014, the Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) took on responsibility for commissioning support services for victims of crime to help them cope and recover.

For the financial year 2017/18 the PCC was allocated £1,370,103 by the Ministry of Justice for the commissioning and/or provision of emotional and practical support services for victims' of crime.

In accordance with the Police and Crime Commissioner's Commissioning Strategy, a proportion of this funding is set aside at the start of the financial year to support a number of 'core services'. A proportion of funding is also made available to support ad-hoc projects and initiatives and on this basis the PCC has agreed to the following funding request:

2.0 Agreed funding

Surrey Police CSE Training: £3,000

Child sexual exploitation is a crime with devastating and long lasting consequences for its victims and their families. Childhoods and family life can be ruined and this is compounded when victims, or those at risk of abuse, do not receive appropriate, immediate and on-going support. The first response to children, and support for them to access help, must be the best it can be from police and other agencies.

Surrey Police is working with the University of Bedfordshire to provide training for 60 Child Sexual Exploitation investigators, with a particular focus on consent and changes to legislation and the investigative implications. The Learning and Development Department has agreed to provide £3,000 of funding, with the PCC providing a further £3,000 to ensure that training can be made available to both dedicated CSE teams and other key staff from the CAU and POLIT.
