Stephen Lawrence Bursary – National Black Police Association – £1,700

This Bursary forms part of a collective of Stephen Lawrence awards but would be specifically used to support Black, Asian and Mixed Ethnicity (BAME) police officers and staff participating in short-term study programmes in the United States.

The bursary is a fantastic way to honour Stephen's memory and to enable selected BAME officers and staff to develop themselves professionally and contribute more effectively to their communities. The bursary will cover the costs of 3-5 months study in the USA at £1,800 per month. The sending force will cover the salaries while the award winner is overseas.

The award winner will be expected to involve themselves with their host community in a way that will contribute to fostering good race relationships, undertaking research and producing a report based upon their area of study that will be helpful to the National Black Police Association.

The total figure for running this bursary for four years are £60,000 to £72,000 (£15,000 to £18,000 pa). The request is for Police and Crime Commissioner's to contribute a one-off sum of £1,700 to support this programme.
