BACKGROUND

This document is produced annually in line with NPCC guidelines for charging of Special Police Services and other chargeable items/services under section 25 of Police Act 1996 (as amended). The guidelines provide a backing to enable the Police & Crime Commissioner (PCC) towards the delivery of its statutory responsibilities for the overall finances and in pursuant of value for money (VFM) in the use of public money.

The key principle of this document is ensuring that police forces can perfectly balance resources to supply a level of policing that is fit for purpose by making right decisions on when and what to charge for police services within the current legal framework. The below Acts provides the legal backing in support of the

- The provision of Special Police Services at the request of any person under Section 25 of the Police Act 1996 (as amended)
- Section 26 of the 1996 Act applies similar requirements to the provision of police services above but applies where they are delivered overseas.
- Section 15 of the Police Reform and Social Responsibility Act 2011 extends to PCCs the powers of the Local Authorities (Goods and Services) Act 1970 to supply goods and services to other bodies or persons.

To deliver on their responsibilities, each PCC sets their own charging policy to reflect their local circumstances, whilst at the same time ensuring compliance with the standard method/framework provided by the NPCC. To ensure transparency, accountability, and VFM, charging policy distinguishes between the different types of costing. Differentiating the costings ensures that different rates are applied to different circumstances, depending on if:

- activities that are profit driven,
- activities undertaken on behalf of the crown,
- activities for charitable purpose, and
- activities that fit within the overarching strategic vision of national policing.

There are two basic categories of costs, those relating to goods/items and special police services (SPS). Most goods/items charges are generally provided as part of the annual NPCC guidelines. However, where a force has developed other services not covered within the NPCC guidelines, the expectation is that the costs for the goods/items is charged at commercial rates, unless provided to either charities or to another crown body.

Special Police Services rates provided by the NPCC guidelines have three key types:

- Direct Costs – used for the charging of SPS supported non-commercial events.
- Operational Resource Costs – used as a starting point for the calculation of SPS supported government agencies or crown bodies.
- Full Economic Costs - used as a starting point for the calculation of SPS supported commercial events.

The administration fee is payable for:

- New Unique Reference Number (URN) applications

The administration fee is not applicable when:

- A security company takes over another security company.
- A security company ceases to trade, and another company takes over the URNs within 28 days.

COST RECOVERY AND SPECIAL POLICE SERVICES (Continued)

If a request for Special Police Services is received such that 15 days' notice cannot be provided to officers and/or staff, a premium will be applied equal to the cost of supplying officers at short notice. If a request is made for officers and/or staff on a public holiday, then the proper addition will be made to the hourly rate.

The Chief Constable may provide percentage abatements to the above charges, depending on the type of event and other contributing factors. The NPCC charging evaluation method is used to show the abatement, if any.

(Police forces use the Special Police Services Charging Evaluation to show which type of charging base to use. By default, Full Economic Cost Recovery should be used).

The officers of the Special Constabulary are volunteers and normally assigned to specific duties. If Police forces deploy Special Constabulary Officers to satisfy a request for service, these officers will be charged at 50% of the current Police Constable charge.

A minimum charge period of four hours applies.

Applications to the Chief Constable should be made on a suitable force form and if the cost exceeds £2,500, a formal agreement between the local policing body and the requesting party will be required. Forces may choose to require payment before delivery of the requested service(s), if considered appropriate.

Cancellation Charges

An event organiser must give at least 15 days' notice prior to cancellation. If this notice period is not supplied a charge can be made up to the equivalent rate of 75% of the full planned costs, as per the agreed charging schedule. Cancellation charges must form part of the initial agreement as signed and agreed by both parties.

Where these are paid on deployment, they can be recovered via mutual aid arrangements. This is a small selection of grades and others can be provided. Mutual aid more than six calendar months will be classed as an attachment.
